It is stated that, the Audio system installed in Silver Jubilee Auditorium is not working efficiently. Few channels/sections of equipment's such as Amplifiers, DSP and Mixers of the Audio system have been damaged and are partially working (not working to their fullest capacity). EPM Cell has checked the same and also the same was inspected by Audio experts/technicians M/s. Chatura AV Innovations, Bangalore/ Davangere.

The details of the inspections are as mentioned below:

1. The BOSE audio system was installed in the year 2011. The system is out of warranty and not under any Annual Maintenance Contract (AMC).

After subsequent discussions with the Audio experts/technicians, they have proposed to replace the entire existing Audio system with new system for the following reasons.

- a. Existing system is an old Setup whereas recent systems use advanced DSP audio processors technology, firmware, etc.
- b. Equipments such as Amplifiers, Mixer cannot be repaired due to non-availability of spares.
- c. Further, replacing faulty ones may create compatibility issues.

Audio technician/Vendor, M/s. Chatura AV Innovations, Bangalore/Davangere, has submitted a report on existing Audio System of KLS GIT along with proposal for replacing the existing Audio system with new BOSE make system, amounting to ₹ 32 Lacs, approximately. 6 Discussed about the proposal regarding incubation space submitted by Dean IRDC

Preamble: In the context of Higher Education Institutions (HEIs), incubation refers to the process of supporting and nurturing entrepreneurial ventures or startups, often led by students, faculty, or alumni. The primary purpose of incubation at HEIs is to foster innovation, entrepreneurship, and the development of new businesses. Here are several reasons why incubation is considered important at HEIs:

- Fostering Innovation: HEIs are hubs of knowledge and research. Incubation provides a platform for translating academic research and innovative ideas into real-world applications and commercial products. It encourages students and faculty to think creatively and develop solutions to real-world problems.
- Entrepreneurship Development: Incubation programs offer aspiring entrepreneurs the support, resources, and mentorship needed to turn their ideas into viable businesses. This helps in cultivating an entrepreneurial mind set among students and faculty, contributing to a culture of innovation within the academic community.
- Skill Development: Through the incubation process, participants gain hands-on experience in various aspects of business development, including market research, product development, financial management, and marketing. This helps them acquire practical skills that go beyond traditional academic knowledge.
- Industry Collaboration: Incubation often involves collaboration with industry partners, which can facilitate the transfer of knowledge between academia and industry. This collaboration can lead to the development of products and services that are more aligned with market needs.
- Economic Impact: Successful startups that emerge from HEI incubation programs can have a significant economic impact. They create jobs, stimulate economic growth, and contribute to the development of the local and national economy.
- Networking Opportunities: Incubation programs provide participants with valuable networking opportunities. Entrepreneurs can connect with mentors, investors, and industry professionals who can offer guidance, support, and potential funding for their ventures.
- Support Infrastructure: HEIs often provide physical infrastructure, such as office space, laboratories, and access to research facilities, which can be critical for early-stage startups with limited resources.
- Technology Transfer: Incubation facilitates the transfer of technology and intellectual property from the academic environment to the commercial sector. This process can lead to the development of innovative products and services with market potential.

GIT

- Risk Mitigation: Starting a business involves inherent risks. Incubation programs provide a supportive environment where entrepreneurs can test their ideas, refine their business models, and receive feedback before fully launching their ventures. This helps in mitigating some of the risks associated with entrepreneurship.
- Accreditation : An active incubation Centre within an institution can demonstrate a commitment to fostering entrepreneurship and innovation. An incubation center often involves faculty and students in applied research, leading to the development of innovative products or solutions. This can positively impact the institution's score.

In summary, incubation at HEIs plays a crucial role in nurturing entrepreneurship, promoting innovation, and bridging the gap between academia and industry. It contributes to the development of a dynamic and entrepreneurial ecosystem within the academic community. Also, it will help us to tap the many funds available at state and central government schemes like Accelerator and TBI with size able grant to build ecosystem if we have a basic good structure existing.

In this regard, it is requested to permit to upgrade the existing Incubation Space.
